STEDMAN'S POEMS.

JUST READY.

P O E M S.

By Edmund Clarence Stedman.

Complete in one elegant volume, uniform with the Farringford Tennyson, the Merrimack Whittier, etc.

With Portrait. 16mo. $2.50.

This volume includes the poems of Mr. Stedman previously published in book form, the famous "Diamond Wedding," "Alice of Monmouth," "The Blameless Prince," the larger poems which have given names to the volumes containing them, with other favorite pieces, such as "Bohemia," "Pan in Wall Street," "The Doorstep," "Israel Freyer's Bid for Gold," "Horace Greeley," "The Old Admiral," and much new matter.

Those who have marked with admiring sympathy Mr. Stedman's growing fame, and who know how richly that fame is merited, will heartily welcome this volume which so amply illustrates the rare scholarship, the generous culture, and the exquisite poetic genius of the author.

Mrs. Moulton recently alluded, in the New York Tribune, to the promise of this book, and said: "Mr. Stedman never writes a small lyric but it is copied from one end of the country to the other; and people are perpetually asking where they can buy his poems complete in one volume. 'He is a poet whom poets love.'"

NOTES IN SEASON.

THEY have a poet at the West who knows how to sing of the good old times,

"Ere pinks were carnations and roses all double," and a collection of "Old Time Pictures and Sheaves of Rhyme," by this happily old-fashioned poet, Mr. Benj. F. Taylor, is published to-day, in a neat red-line edition, by S. C. Griggs & Co. Its pages are delightful. Mr. Taylor, by the way, is to print a series of new poems on other old subjects in Scribner's. S. C. Griggs & Co. have also nearly ready for the press a new book by Prof. Matthews—whose late work on "Getting on in the World" is in its tenth thousand—under the title of "Words, their Significance, Use, and Abuse," which is said to be of much interest to the general public.

THE Appletons have nearly completed the issue of their popular 12mo edition of Cooper's novels, and propose now to include the five Sea-Tales in one volume, uniform with the "Leather Stocking Tales." Herbert Spencer's "Sociology," and the new novel, "Lascine," will be issued within a fortnight.

"Poor Miss Finch" and "The Woman in White" will follow "The New Magdalen" within the fortnight in Harper's new 12mo edition of Wilkie Collins. "Little Dorritt" is about ready in their Household Dickens.

AMONG the holiday books presented this season by Leavitt & Allen Bros. the finest will be a brilliantly bound edition of "The Madonnas of Raphael," the thirteen photographic reproductions printed by Rockwood, and mounted with gilt borders, the text consisting of selections from various writers. Two others are "Shakespeare's Characters of the Passions and Imagination," and "Shakespeare's Characters of the Intellect and Affections," each with eleven steel plates, the text being Mrs. Jameson's well-known and admirable essays on "Characteristic Women." The binding of these two is to be in gorgeous color. All Leavitt & Allen Bros.' new books are established veterans in the trade.

MACMILLAN & Co. have in transitu from the other side fine invoices of new and important books of their English house. The work of the Princess Marie Lichtenstein, on "Holland House," that centre, for many generations, of English fashion and genius, will be not only vastly entertaining but one of the finest issues of the English press. It is crowded with portraits and views of the different parts of this historic edifice, on steel and wood; the head and tail pieces are very gems, and the binding is novel and surpassingly rich.

THE little book on "Children of the Olden Times," by the author of "A Trap to Catch a Sunbeam," Mrs. Mackarness, is delightfully quaint. It tells all about and gives pictures of the children who grew up into men and women and became old and died years and centuries ago, and is most interesting both to big and little folks. An edition is imported by Scribner, Welford & Armstrong.

HENRY HOLT & Co. have made arrangements with the author's executor to publish the Autobiography of John Stuart Mill. The book is out in England, and will be ready in this country early next month. Holt & Co. will also publish a uniform edition of Mill's miscellaneous works.

GIFT Books suitable for the Christmas trade are not very numerous among the Philadelphia announcements. Lippincotts have two handsome quarto table books whereof the illustrations will be the attractive feature. They are "Our British Portrait Painters, 1617 to 1872," with sixteen steel engravings, and descriptive text by Edmund Ollier; and "Pictures by Clarkson Stanfield, R. A.," with biographical and descriptive sketch by James Daffarue. They have also in preparation "The Bernese Oberland," consisting of twelve scenes among its peaks, by Elijah Walton, F. G. S., with descriptive text by T. G. Bonney, M. A. It also will be a quarto. Porter & Coates have a set of three small quarto gift books for children, bound in uniform style, with illuminated sides, and very freely illustrated. They are "Adventures by Sea and Land," "Perilous Incidents in the Lives of Sailors and Travellers," and "Idle Hands," by T. S. Arthur. The first two mentioned are quite new and are exceedingly well made.

PORTER & COATES, Philadelphia, announce "The Young Artists' Series of Copies and Outlines for Water Color Painting," after John Abso- lom, a member of the London Institution of Painters in Water Colors. The parts will be published at 25 cents each, and will contain two colored copies, and four outline copies for the pupil to color. This firm have just published "Standard Fairy Tales," 12mo., pp 525, a collection of the old favorites of the nursery, with numerous illustrations by Gustave Doré and George Cruikshank; and "Fairy Tales," by Madame la Comtesse de Ségur, translated by Mrs. Chapman Coleman and her daughters, 12mo., pp 293. The latter is also abundantly illustrated and both are attractively bound.

THE revised edition of Townsend's "Physician's Hand Book" for 1874 has made its annual appearance much improved. Many new features have been introduced which must increase the sale of this popular standard manual, now in its seventeenth year of publication.

The First Steps.

THE first step toward the general organization and a general convention of the book trade has been taken, and this, we firmly believe, is the first step toward a reform of the evils under which the whole trade has been languishing. A full report of the organization of the "Booksellers' Protective Union," at Cincinnati, will be found elsewhere, and in our correspondence columns readers will find another sign of the times in the news that a local booksellers' association has been formed at Nashville. Let the good work go on, and perhaps the meeting proposed to be held January 15, 1874, may become the desired general convention itself.

We are almost sorry to see the word "protective" introduced, as we believe the present movement should be not hostile, but friendly, as between retailers and publishers, and the word is in rather bad odor. We repeat that the whole trade, from such houses as the Appletons, Harpers, Lippincotts, Osgoods, etc., down to the smallest bookseller in the remotest country town, is alike interested in this trade reform. What hurts the one, hurts the other, and this is the one fact to be brought forward, and the one principle to be emphasized throughout the whole agitation which we trust has begun.

We hope that the Nashville example will be followed generally throughout the country; that local organizations may be formed in every large place, which may send at least delegates to the proposed convention. Very much has been accomplished in taking the first steps, but the others must follow.

The "Courtesy" of the American News Co.

WE have been honored by Mr. Farrelly, of the American News Co., with an explanation (printed in another column), which we regret to say is rather evasive than to the point. In order to make the case clear we reprint our simple statement as made in the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY for October 18:

The American News Co., having refused to receive packages containing the UNIFORM TRADE LIST ANNUAL, for forwarding to the private dealers who have requested us to deliver their copies through this house, we are obliged to notify the latter to order their packages sent through any of the other jobbing houses, all of whom have very cheerfully, as is the courteous custom of the trade, done this favor to their dealers. We hold these packages to await such orders, and beg the dealers concerned to understand that the delay thus occasioned is in no way our fault.

Qui s'excuse s'accuse :—It is nowhere implied that the discourtesy of the American News Co. was considered by us as a mark of distinction because the "packages" were "of your publication." Of course not, for it was stated to us, in unmistakable terms, by representatives of the American News Co., that packages for enclosure were refused as a rule. Now, Mr. Farrelly says, "if at all, it was because we forward only such as may be inserted in a case that may be packing for some customer." The fact is, that when, in accordance with instructions received from their customers, a number of packages were presented to the American News Co., their refusal was made without any exception, and as not even the presented list of addresses was examined, it happened that the orders of some of their own branches were left unnoticed. Thus, either the American News Co. had no cases packing for any customers, or some one made a misstatement. One fact cannot be denied. The American News Co. has disregarded the distinct orders and wishes of their customers, and we have received letters from some of them expressing their surprise in strong language. And justly so. The practice of enclosing packages is an old-established courtesy in the book trade, not only in the United States but in all civilized countries; in fact—Mr. Farrelly's unexpressed views in this matter notwithstanding—not simply a courtesy, but a matter-of-course policy with every jobbing business. We are confident that the American News Co. owes its well-earned success to more obliging and less high-handed manners than are actually practised at that establishment; in other words, to a time when packages for enclosure were received gladly and—courteously.

OUR usual special number for the holiday season, or Christmas Number, will be issued Nov. 22. It will contain a useful list of the holiday books, and of the principal juveniles published during the year. It is of the first importance that this number should be issued promptly, for its value depends upon its being in the hands of the trade before December. Applications for space for insets or for the use of cuts should therefore be made at once, and advertisements should be immediately prepared. We have received correspondence complaining of the lack of time for the preparation of advertisements for the Library Number, and we trust this notice of the Christmas Number will forestall any difficulties of this sort. The number will be a large one, and must therefore be in the printer's hands earlier than usual. The trade and public rely upon it largely for purchases of holiday stock, and we trust to receive the advertisements of publishers having holiday books to offer at the earliest possible day.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The interests of the trade cannot be better served than by a full discussion by its members of all questions which affect it. Our columns are always open to communications on any such subject, and we cordially invite the trade to express any suggestions or opinions of interest or value in "Letters to the Editor."

Mr. Farrelly Explains.

NEW YORK, October 21, 1873.

To the Editor of the Publishers' Weekly.

DEAR SIR: We have noticed in the last PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY the statement impugning our courtesy in the matter of forwarding packages of the "Trade List Annual." In reply, we state we have refused no such packages because they were of your publication, but if at all, it was because we forward only such as may be inserted in a case that may be packing for some customer, and it is in that way only that packages are forwarded to our dealers. It must have been under such circumstances that your packages were refused.

Yours respectfully,

PATRICK FARRELLY,
Manager.

The Trade Sales.—Another Voice.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21, 1873.

To the Editor of the Publishers' Weekly.

WE have read with much interest the letter of "General Trade" in your last issue, and agree with it in every particular. We have conversed with contributors to these trade sales who would all agree to the statements there made, and when asked, "Why do you contribute to sales detrimental to your interests, as you believe them to be?" reply always, "Because the others do."

The first thing to be done to bring about a reform in the matter of underselling, is to stop the trade sales. Of the houses that contributed invoices to the last trade sale, only a small proportion are those whose issues are of sufficient importance to attract any buyers, and on this small number the success of the sale depends.

Eighteen of the one hundred invoices to the last sale were contributed by houses whose refusal would have prevented the sale. Ten of these are in New York, five in Boston, and three in Philadelphia. If any party as much interested to prevent a trade sale as the auctioneer is to have one, should take the matter in hand, enough of these houses would refuse to contribute to prevent a sale of any account, and thus the first important step towards the abolition of underselling would be taken. A reduction of discount to the trade would enable the publishers to reduce the present high retail prices, which are only kept up by the prevailing methods of auctions and large discounts.

A commentary on the last trade sale is now being shown in Boston, where one of the cheap book stores is now advertising the best books of Boston's largest publishing house, at retail, at 40 per cent. discount from their prices "having been purchased at the last trade sale in New York."

We are glad to see the interest that is being shown in this matter of improving the condition of booksellers, and hope to see a lasting good accomplished.

RETAILER.

Another Affirmative Vote.

WESTBROOK, October 27, 1873.

To the Editor of the Publishers' Weekly.

I AM much pleased at the discussion, in your pages, of the character and influence of the so-called "Trade Sales of Books," for I am sure if publishers can be made to understand the matter in all its aspects, they will discover the chief source of the disorganization and depression which now afflicts the book business. The correspondent "General Trade" has presented the subject in its true light, and I have yet to see the publisher who does not admit the correctness of his statements; but I have met two or three who shrink from admitting the conclusion which he announces—that these "Trade Sales" are an evil with not one redeeming virtue.

This is due, I think, to a desire to foster an auction room where remainders and "dead horses" can be worked off at some price. Publishers, in their zeal to supply their lists with new books, take in a great many things that they know are poor stock, and they do this because, they say, "if there is a failure to sell in the ordinary way, they can work off, under the auctioneer's hammer, and the strong incentive of four months' credit, any overstock or poor stock. So they sustain the semi-annual auctions—just putting in the sales enough good stock to make the auction seem a real Trade or general supply affair.

But is not this a very wretched excuse, at best? And how short-sighted must any man be who does not see in these auctions a general depreciation in book values. You tell bidders that they are to pay fair trade rates for their purchases at Clinton Hall, and they will of course stay at home; they go there for bargains—to press down prices—to force sales at the lowest possible figures, and then to claim four months' credit on such deteriorated rates! What use to even try to sell, in the regular way, at regular rates, when these semi-annual slaughters offer all the supply wanted? No use, as many publishers know to their cost.

The great house of Harpers has, with proper good sense, always refused to go into these auctions with their stock, and, as a consequence, no house in the trade stands so high for the unvarying value of their publications. The Trade Sale contributors' books may be hawked by the Cheap Johns of the business, at half off, at retail, but the Harpers' stock everywhere sells at its announced publisher's price, and for the simple reason that the Harpers will not put up their books to be sold by an auctioneer.

What the Harpers do is for the interests of every respectable publisher to do; and if every respectable house would refuse to contribute to these "going—going—gone!" red flag sales, there would be very little cry among retailers about the cutting of prices, and the loss of trade by Cheap John competition.

I, for one, say these "trade sales" are an unmitigated nuisance—an evil that ought to be abated; and I know of only one way to do this—to shut off their supplies. If retailers would give a preference in laying in their stocks for the books of houses that do not sell their publications at under prices to the bargain seekers, at "trade" auctions, this would, perhaps, compel publishers with heavy lists to avoid contributions to Leavitt's semi-annual and semi-occasional ad interim sales; and if Appleton, Osgood and Scribner would decline further coöperation with the auctioneers, it would, of course, end the influence that now is working such demoralization to the entire book business. As for myself, I say, away with these "trade" slaughters.

Yours,

CLARENDON.

Booksellers' Associations—An Organization in Nashville.

NASHVILLE, TENN., Oct. 17, 1873.

To the Editor of the Publishers' Weekly.

I HAVE read all that has been said through the columns of the WEEKLY, in regard to "underselling" and other questions affecting the welfare of the trade, and am glad to notice the interest manifested by booksellers generally, upon the importance of united action, to protect ourselves from the aggression of publishers, who are encroaching more and more every day upon our "rights." I believe there is not a bookseller in the land (with the exception of a few monopolists) who does not anxiously desire a general convention, and the formation of a national board of trade. The idea has been advanced, the question agitated, one or two suggestions have been offered, and Indianapolis has been suggested as a suitable place for a general convention, but no time fixed or general plan of action advised.

Permit me to offer the following: Let the booksellers of every city and town form a local board of trade, and form such laws and regulations as the time and place suggest, and be prepared to send delegates to a national convention, to assemble in Baltimore, say June 1st or October 1st, 1874. Act at once. Organize, organize, ORGANIZE! Let Kentucky's motto be our warning. There will be sufficient time from this date until then for the adjustment of any local differences that may exist in the trade, and for a full discussion of our "grievances," and for the elaboration of such measures looking toward reform as will have a tendency to make the convention harmonious and united.

I am glad to say that the booksellers of this city, recognizing the importance of unity in prices (underselling is a game that has been played here), have organized the "Nashville Booksellers' Association," on the basis of a previous agreement, to maintain retail prices of school and college textbooks. Messrs. Dunaway, Eastman, and Wheeler were elected a committee to draft resolutions. And now that we are regularly organized, ready to send a delegate to that convention, publishers may expect to hear an earnest protest from the N. B. A. against their nefarious practices. Meanwhile, to my brethren of the craft everywhere in the United States I would say, Prepare to do likewise.

I would also suggest, as a practical finding list is so indispensable an article to the live bookseller, that you make and send a blank subscription list (naming the amount necessary) to every bookseller, so that he could have an opportunity to get the thing started. I have no doubt that you could secure enough names among booksellers to start it on a secure foundation.

Respectfully,

A. SETLIFF.

A Librarian's Views.

[We publish the following portion of a personal letter from a prominent librarian, which gives interesting testimony on several points.—ED.]

I am glad to see that there is such a stir among the booksellers, and hope that great good will come of it. The complaints which they make remind me of the time when I was in the trade—and doubtless, I should have been there now, a wealthy member of the guild, instead of being a nonentity in a library at a small salary; but I had to purchase of the same men who supplied teachers, and these last generally got better bargains than I did.

I was brought up to the trade from the time I was ten years of age, and I see that it is not what it was. It is very difficult to find a respectable selection of books in any interior city or village; but the so-called book-stores are generally mere depositories of fancy-goods trash, which glitters and deludes the populace into purchasing. Ask for a book: if new, they remember it and will order it for you; if an old work, they know naught about it.

Very few are now educated to the book business, and never study catalogues or any work relative to bibliography.

In this city there is not a good book-store where a general selection is kept, and not a person in the trade who really knows aught about books. It is a pity that apprentices are not now taken who would learn the whole minutiae of the business, but I suppose there is no use talking of placing matters where they were. Boys are too independent to agree to clerk it for eight or ten years; the bookseller does not interest himself about his clerk; and the consequence is, that but few youth remain long enough to attain to even the knowledge of the rudiments.

I have spun this too long, so cut to suit.

Hoping your exertions in this crusade will meet with success, I remain yours,

The Booksellers' Protective Union.

PURSUANT to a call issued by several of the leading retail booksellers in the West, the representatives of several firms assembled in Cincinnati, Ohio, and met in convention at the Burnet House yesterday.

After general greetings, congratulations, etc., the meeting proceeded to organize by electing for president, Abel Low, of Springfield, and for secretary, Howard L. Ross, of Hamilton. The President presented the objects of the meeting, and requested full, free, and liberal discussion of all matters of interest to the convention.

After the reading of many letters of indorsement and encouragement from members of the trade unable to attend, but heartily anxious to indorse and coöperate with any measures deemed advisable by the convention, J. W. Gunn, of Springfield, addressed the assembly on the subject of publishers underselling their wholesale customers. He made many points on the issue, beginning with the publishers of law books, who discountenance the dealers almost universally by selling direct to the profession at equally as good rates as to dealers, and going through the catalogue of medical, miscellaneous, etc., in a lucid manner, quoting instances within his own knowledge, which, although including comparatively few firms, yet too many to allow the dealers to remain longer silent while their trade is and has been in jeopardy from such a practice. Some of the remedies suggested were petitions to publishers to discontinue all sales of books at a discount, except to regular booksellers; to organize a central executive committee to expose all publishers, wholesale dealers, etc., discovered selling to consumers at less than full retail prices, all members of the convention or association which may be organized to immediately withdraw their trade and support from such publishers and wholesale dealers, and use every honorable means to bring said dealers to a proper trade basis; to solicit publishers not to sell to dealers who place their stock on retail market at wholesale-prices.

On motion of J. W. Gunn, seconded by Mr. S. C. Richey, of Oxford, a Committee on Resolutions, to report at the evening session, was appointed, consisting of J. W. Gunn, S. C. Richey, and C. B. Ruggles. Mr. Ruggles withdrawing, Mr. T. C. O'Kane was appointed to fill the vacancy.

Among the numerous difficulties and grievances to be obviated were presented the following: Wholesale dealers West buy large stocks, expecting to sell to the Western trade, and afterward are prevented by Eastern houses selling to small dealers at or near the same rates that large jobbers receive; wholesale dealers, East and West, selling to the professions at a discount entirely too liberal and preposterous; selling to private parties at a discount; a few publishers selling to dealers at one-third, or very little less, and giving to "agents" (very small dealers) from 5 to 20 per cent. better.

The convention adjourned to 7:30 P. M.

The adjourned session convened at the appointed hour, President Low in the chair.

A letter of congratulation to the signers of the "first call," from the editor of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, was read.

The report of the Committee on Resolutions was as follows, and the convention adopted the report unanimously:

"Whereas, The present custom of underselling is destructive to the interests of every dealer in the trade, whether publisher, jobber, or retail dealer, and the profits of the trade are so endangered as to create general complaint,

"Resolved, That we organize ourselves into an association for our mutual protection in trade.

"Resolved, That this association shall be called 'The Booksellers' Protective Union.' The objects of the association shall be to secure uniformity of prices, reasonable, but not exorbitant profits, and to entirely prevent the practice of selling at a discount from retail prices to any parties not engaged directly in the trade, and to effect this,

"Resolved, That we appoint a Central Executive Committee for the transaction of any business necessary to carry into effect these objects.

"Resolved, That we address a letter to the publishers setting forth these irregularities, and asking for such immediate action upon their part as the mutual interests of the publishers and trade demand."

The following form of letter was adopted, to be signed by all the booksellers of the West, and forwarded to the publishers and jobbers of books as soon as practicable for the Executive Committee to secure signatures:

"To Book Publishers and Jobbers of Books.

"GENTLEMEN: At a convention of Western booksellers, held at Cincinnati, October 16, 1873, the following preamble and resolutions were unanimously adopted:

"Whereas, A great irregularity exists in the book trade, viz., publishers and jobbers selling books to persons not in the trade at nearly the same discount as to the trade, and in some instances at even a greater discount, therefore,

"Resolved, 1. That we consider the foregoing irregularity as very detrimental to the interests of both the publishers and retail dealers.

"Resolved, 2. That the various publishers and jobbers throughout the country are under obligations to the trade to immediately discontinue this custom, and furnish no one outside the trade with books at any other than the regular retail prices, except school books for first introduction."

The undersigned retail booksellers call your attention to the above resolutions, and respectfully request that you comply with the second resolution.

The following committees were appointed:

Committee on Constitution and By-Laws.

S. N. Todd, Piqua, O., Chairman.

S. C. Richey, Oxford, O.

J. C. Trader, Xenia, O.

Jeff. Hildebrant, Wilmington, O.

J. H. V. Smith, Indianapolis, Ind.

Executive Committee.

J. W. Gunn, Chairman, Springfield, O.

Howard L. Ross, Hamilton, O.

Prof. T. C. O'Kane, Delaware, O.

Abel Low, Springfield, O.

W. Payne, of Payne, Holden & Co., Dayton, O.

President.

Abel Low, Springfield.

Corresponding Secretary.

J. W. Gunn, Springfield, O.

The convention requests all booksellers interested in this movement to communicate immediately with the Executive Committee or Corresponding Secretary.

The convention adjourned to meet at the Burnet House, Cincinnati, Ohio, Jan. 15, 1874, at 2 P.M.

About twenty-five firms have, on very short notice, signified an anxiety and willingness to co-operate heartily with this movement.

BOOKS RECEIVED.

This department is intended to include short descriptive notes, stating briefly and simply the topics and substance of important and popular books received, to enable booksellers to order knowingly and confidently books likely to sell well in their localities, and to recommend them according to the wants and tastes of their customers. Books for notice must be addressed to this office. Early copies will receive first attention.

AN OUTLINE STUDY OF MAN, by Mark Hopkins. (Scribner, Armstrong & Co.) The substance of this volume was first given to the public in lectures delivered before the Lowell Institute. The lectures were altogether an experiment with Dr. Hopkins. He inaugurated them to simplify and popularize the study of metaphysics. He conceived that this intricate subject might be taught more clearly and in a more comprehensive manner than had ever been attempted. In delivering his lectures he called into requisition a blackboard, upon which he illustrated, with the aid of diagrams, his progress in a striking manner, presenting, probably for the first time, an abstract science to the understanding, through the medium of sight. Of course in reading the lectures the want of this assistant causes them to lose somewhat in that directness which characterized their delivery, still the author never fails to make himself understood, and we do not doubt but that the work will be quite as signal a success as were the lectures. It presents man in his unity. Mind and body are brought into one system. The author makes no attempt to be either critical or controversial. His method is merely constructive. Man is made the basis of it, and such studies as anatomy, physiology, logic, and morals, which pertain to him, are treated of briefly and in good plain English as they arise. It is remarkable how much information is given in so limited a space, and how fresh and interesting even to the popular taste the contents of the book will be found. 12mo, cloth, $1.75.

HIS MARRIAGE VOW, by Mrs. Caroline F. Corbin. (Lee & Shepard.) It would seem with American writers, of the fair sex especially, as if the novel, pure and simple, was numbered among the "lost arts." Fiction, with the majority of them, is but a vehicle for the ventilation of a peculiar view of an abstract question, either moral or religious, or the discussion of some new theory of platonic or plutonic love. Mrs. Corbin's novel is not an exception to the rule. It deals with several questions of the day, and gives us as a hero a man who is represented as deeply loving two women at the same time. One of the women is his wife, a hopeless invalid, and the other is a very charming widow. The characters discuss their singular relations in a lofty tone, which is really refreshing; we doubt, however, if the high moral ground assumed for them is tenable. The book is, nevertheless, sufficiently well written to require a perusal. 16mo, cloth, $1.50.

SONGS OF THE SUN LANDS, by Joaquin Miller. (Roberts Bros.) Mr. Miller ranks as one of the best American poets of the present day. His verses possess force and originality and also polish, three qualities rarely combined. He sings of the Sierras and the Yosemite, of Bethlehem and Palestine, and "Beyond Jordan." The best of the collection is comprised in "Isles of the Amazons," "From Sea to Sea," and "By the Sun-Down Seas." The edition is quite elegant, the publishers having contributed everything to it which goes to make up a choice book. 16mo, cloth, $1.50.

AN OFFICE OF DEVOTION, for Use in Schools, by A. Cleveland Cox. (Martin Taylor.) A compilation to supplement the Common Prayer, chiefly intended to meet the wants of school devotions. 12mo, cloth, 50 cents.

THE BIBLE RHYME, by A. Cleveland Cox. (Martin Taylor.) A little work for the use of Bible classes and Sunday schools, designed to serve as an introduction to Bible studies. It is an outline of the books of the Old and New Testaments, given in verse, which renders the book both instructive and entertaining. It will be found a capital aid to the memory. The verses are illustrated with brief notes, condensing into short tables "things which a Christian ought to know." 12mo, cloth, 50 cents.

BED-TIME STORIES, by Louise Chandler Moulton. (Roberts Bros.) The golden-haired little girls will be delighted with these pretty stories. They are devoted exclusively to the recital of their virtues. We do not know why Mrs. Moulton has so neglected the unfashionable little brunettes. We hope she will wield her graceful pen again for their benefit. Surely a few of the virtues must dwell with them. The stories will be found very attractive. The writer never preaches, and yet in each story gives an example of self-sacrifice worthy of imitation. The volume is tastefully gotten up with some nice illustrations by Addie Ledyard. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

MANUAL OF THE PHYSICAL GEOGRAPHY AND INSTITUTIONS OF THE STATE OF IOWA, by C. A. White. (Day, Egbert & Fidler.) So little space is given in most of the school books to the history, institutions, and resources of the State of Iowa that Prof. White was induced to write this valuable manual to meet the wants of many students. It is full of all necessary information concerning the State, is well illustrated, and contains several maps. 4to, boards, 75 cents.

MONOPOLIES AND THE PEOPLE, by D. C. Cloud. (Day, Egbert & Fidler.) This is the seventh edition of this work. It is presented to the public in an enlarged and improved form, with an Index and many other important additions. The aim of the author has been to give a true history of the operations of different monopolies, and the oppression and abuses practiced by them. Cr. 8vo, cloth, $3.

THE LIVING CHRIST. (Warren & Wyman.) An Evangelical tract, originally published in the Church Monthly. It attacks the growing skepticism of the day, and sets forth the beauties of a Christian life. 24mo, cloth, 50 cents.

THE INTRODUCTORY READING BOOK, by E. C. Pomeroy. (Martin Taylor.) An illustrated Primary Reader on a new plan, for schools and for home instruction. The reading matter is given in clear and simple language. The spelling is detached from the reading, and presented at intervals in separate exercises. Every lesson is preceded by an appropriate picture, which occupies the upper part of the left hand page, while the reading ends at the bottom of the next page. The pupil, therefore, will in every instance have the entire lesson before him. This arrangement of illustration and text is believed to be a valuable assistant in the instruction of primary classes. The book is nicely got up; printed in large, clear type, and very well illustrated. 16mo, boards, 50 cents.

STORIES OF INFINITY, by Camille Flammarion, translated from the French by S. R. Crocker. (Roberts Brothers.) It has passed into a saying that the French popularize what the Germans originate, and certainly if French scientific labors appear superficial to German scientists, German science is dull to the French. The present volume admirably illustrates this idea of the popularization of sciences. It is even more: it is one of "the fairy tales of science" alluded to by Tennyson in "Locksley Hall." We are treated in "Stories of Infinity" to a fairy astronomy, very fanciful, even though mathematics are, to some extent, introduced by the author to give warrant for the faith that is in him. For the word "faith," however, it might perhaps be better to write "imagination"—through a portion of the book. The third part, entitled "In Infinity," is apparently the most scientific, although "The History of a Comet" makes no mean pretensions to scholarship. The first division is called "Lumen." Lumen is a disembodied soul, and gives to a friend, who was by him in his last illness, a description of his experience after death. On the 244th page is a piece of hieroglyphical writing, sent by Lumen from the world of spirits (for we still meet with this personage toward the end of the book, which contains in all 287 pages). These hieroglyphics, taken with the attendant elucidation, are ingenious; indeed, ingenuity is Flammarion's crowning characteristic, as here displayed. But he rises higher than this faculty, inasmuch as he infuses the breath of poetry into his narration. The work is well translated. 16mo, cloth, $1.50.

THOREAU, THE POET-NATURALIST by William Ellery Channing. (Roberts Brothers.) Thoreau is a in character our literature; eminently a character, for while others excel him in elegance of finish, in him, perhaps more than in any of them, the man strikes through the words. At the period of the excitement consequent upon the execution of John Brown, he strikingly evinced his sterling earnestness. Mr. Channing gives us a sort of running biographical sketch, with a portrait, sometimes so affectionately minute as to border on triviality. On pages 239-40 will be found a complete list of Thoreau's works. Particularly graphic is the account of his death, commencing on page 318. Mr. Channing has added to his memorial of Thoreau some poetry styled "Memorial Verses, illustrating chiefly scenes of Thoreau's life." Of these poems, "Truro," in the metre of Tennyson's "In Memoriam," is a fine production, the word-picture of an old wrecker being extremely powerful. The style in which the book is couched is literary, but not always idiomatic, and savors of those peculiarities seen in the writings of Emerson and Alcott. It may be that the keen climate of Concord tends to make both the writer and the writing epigrammatic. 12mo, cloth, $2.

WE have received from the American Tract Society a batch of juveniles. It would be impossible to enter into a separate account of their literary merits. All we can say is that they equal in appearance any publications we have yet seen from this company. They are attractively bound, full of good illustrations, and remarkably cheap. "Poppet" and "Out West," 64mo, cloth, 20 cents, are tiny little books which will delight a child's heart. "Fred and his Dogs" and "Julia and her Kittens," 48mo, cloth, 25 cents, are of another series and just as pretty as possible. These four deserve special mention for the beautiful ornamental stamping of the front cover. The titles of the balance are "My Pet's Picture Book," "Robbie's Light," "Little Dot," ea. 30 cents; "Horace Carleton," "Frank Merton's Conquest," "Oakfield Lodge," "Rachel White's Fault," "Ethel Seymour," "Alice Maitland's Trial," and "Dora Felton's Visit," ea. 40 cents; "The Uhlan's Wife," "Wilson's Kindling Depot," ea. 60 cents; "A Week's Holiday," 75 cents. The above are all cloth, 18mo. Also, "The Soul's Cry," "Anchor of the Soul," ea. 50 cents. Both are elegant 24mos, and printed in large, clear type. They are of a special religious character.

LITERARY AND TRADE NEWS.

QUIDA's new story is entitled "Two Little Wooden Shoes." Lippincotts have announced the book.

THE exact title of Harte's new Christmas story for Scribner's Monthly is "A Monte Flat Pastoral: How Old Man Plunkett Went Home." The entire story is in type.

THE poems of the late John R. Thompson, at his death the literary editor of the Evening Post, are being edited by R. H. Stoddard.

MRS. MARY M. DODGE's admirable juvenile classic, "Hans Brinker; or the Silver Skate," is to be published in a new and handsomely illustrated edition by the Scribners.

"POPULAR Objections to Revealed Truth" are the special subjects of the third volume of the English Christian Evidence Society Lectures to be published by Randolph. They combat current phases of unbelief in a way to appeal to the general and casual reader.

AN extraordinary amount of ingenuity seems to be employed by novelists in the manufacture of outré titles for their works. An example of this is shown in Florence Montgomery's new novel announced by Lippincotts, "Thwarted; or, Duck's Eggs in a Hen's Nest."

THE Bishop of Pennsylvania is fortunate in his literary ventures. His "Sunday at Home," a manual of devotion for home use, intended for occasions when circumstances prevent attendance at church, is already in its fourth edition. It is published by Porter & Coates.

"THE BORDERLAND OF SCIENCE" is the title of a new work by Richard A. Proctor, announced by Lippincotts.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT & Co., Philadelphia, announce "Day Thoughts and Commentary on the New Testament," by R. Tennent Shaw; "History of French Literature" adapted from the French of M. Demogeot by Christiana Bridge; "Lucian," by Rev. Lucas Collins, forming volume XVIII. of "Ancient Classics for English Readers"; "A Treatise on Therapeutics, comprising Materia Medica, with Special Reference to the Application of Physiological Action of Drugs to Clinical Medicine," by H. C. Wood, Jr., M. D.; "Wonders; or, the Corps of Observation," by Col. William M. Runkel, illustrated; "Berkley's Principle of Human Knowledge," edited by Dr. Charles P. Krauth; "Lady Bell," by the author of "Citoyenne Jacqueline," illustrated; "Liberty and Law under Federative Government," by Britton A. Hill; and the "Memoirs of John Quincy Adams," edited by Charles Francis Adams. The work was originally announced more than two years ago, but its preparation was delayed by its editor's appointment as a member of the Geneva Convention. The firm have issued the third and concluding volume of Prescott's "Ferdinand and Isabella," edited by John Forster Kirk; "Honey and Gall," a volume of poems by Francis S. Saltus; and "A Great Lady," a sensational but very interesting novel, translated from the German of Van Dewart.

PORTER & COATES state that in the second edition, "Northern Lights" will include a table of authorship of the several stories, by oversight omitted from the first.

"HOUSEHOLD WORSHIP," lately published by Porter & Coates, is understood to be by the president of one of the Philadelphia banks, who however withholds his name. It is peculiarly fitted for family worship.

MARTIN TUPPER has found an imitator in Blanchard Jerrold, son of the author of "A Story of a Feather," who announces "Proverbial Wisdom: A Collection of Short and Pithy Sayings in Proverbial Form."

REV. JOHN HENRY BLUNT, the editor of "Blunt's Dictionary of Doctrinal and Historical Theology," has in the press of Rivingtons a "Dictionary of Sects, Heresies, and Schools of Thought," which will be published in this country by J. B. Lippincott & Co.

NATHAN SARGENT, whose nom de plume of Olliver Oldschool was frequently to be seen attached to contributions in the periodicals of thirty years ago, has a new work in the press, entitled "Public Men and Events from the Commencement of Mr. Monroe's Administration in 1817 to the close of Mr. Fillmore's Administration in 1853. The time covered by the work was full of political excitement and stirring events. Party spirit ran high, and the debates in Congress had a pungent flavor about them which would scarcely be tolerated nowadays. Mr. Sargent was a frequent writer on the political issues of his times, and was in a position to note the course of events—two good reasons for anticipating that his forthcoming work will be interesting and valuable. It will probably take the form of two octavo volumes, and will be published by J. B. Lippincott & Co.

EDWARD EGGLESTON's new story, which is expected by those best capable of judging to be the best he has yet written, will be commenced in next week's number of the Christian Union, and thereafter published in book form by J. B. Ford & Co. "The Circuit Rider: a Tale of the Heroic Age" embodies personal experience, and is said to be a strong, graphic, and happy picturing of pioneer work in the wide West.

DR. SCHWEINFURTH's great work, "The Heart of Africa," is now making rapid progress towards completion. In a geographical sense, his book will contribute in an important degree to the solution of the Nile problem; and ethnologically it will tend to set at rest the disputed question as to the existence of a dwarf race in Central Africa. Dr. Schweinfurth is an accomplished draughtsman, and his work, which will form two octavo volumes, will be elaborately illustrated from his own drawings. The work will be published simultaneously in London, by Sampson Low & Co.; in Leipsic, by Mr. Brockhaus; in Paris, by MM. Hachette & Co.; and in New York, by Harper & Brothers.

D. VAN NOSTRAND has in press, and will publish shortly, the following works: "Notes of a Metallurgical Journey in Europe," by John A. Church, E.M. It will form an octavo volume, and will be illustrated. In the "Science Series," "Ventilation of Buildings," by W. F. Butler; "On the Designing and Construction of Storage Reservoirs," by Arthur Jacob, A.B., and "Surcharged and Different Forms of Retaining Walls," by Jas. S. Tate.

MR. F. C. ADAMS, a well-known Washington journalist, has just written a new work entitled "Our Little Monarchy; Who Runs it, and What it Costs." Its tone may be judged by the title, but it cannot fail to contain much valuable information. Fells & Co., of Washington, are the publishers.

MESSRS. BENTLEY promise a translation, by Mr. J. B. Brockley, of M. Villemain's "Life of Gregory the Seventh." The manuscript of this work, says the Athenaeum, was left complete at the author's death; before the first siege of Paris, it was removed for safe keeping to Angers; at the capitulation it was brought back to the capital, and housed in the Rue de Lille, where it narrowly escaped the flames kindled by the Commune, the next house being burnt to the ground.

DR. WEYMOUTH has in press, for separate publication, a much enlarged edition of his paper, read before the Philological Society, "On Anglo-Saxon and Early English Pronunciation."

S. REDGRAVE's "Dictionary of Artists of the English School" will be published during the autumn, and contain notices of the chief artists' more important works.

Two important books on ecclesiastical subjects are announced by Mr. T. Whittaker. One is on the "Ecclesiastical Polity of the New Testament, the Church of the New Testament," by the Rev. G. A. Jacob, D.D.; the other, "Unity not Uniformity; or, The Catholicity of True Religion," by the Rev. George Warburton Weldon, M.A., of Trinity College, Cambridge. Both of them discuss one of the most prominent topics of the Evangelical Alliance.

It is understood that Hon. John Bigelow has in press a revised and very much enlarged edition of the Autobiography of Benjamin Franklin. His former work in two volumes will be embodied in this, which will probably extend to four volumes, and will, we presume, be published by J. B. Lippincott & Co.

H. MAYER, Cologne, will shortly publish the long-expected work on the Mormons, by the celebrated traveller and ethnologist Robert von Schlagintweit. The work will embrace the whole history of the development of Mormonism, from its origin down to the present time. We have not yet heard of any arrangement for an American edition, but doubt not that this important work will find an American translator and publisher.

BROCKHAUS, Leipsic, has just published a most interesting volume by Wm. Tangermann, the well-known leader of the Old Catholics, and their first officiating priest in Cologne, who writes under the nom de plume Victor Granella. The book is entitled "From Two Worlds: Reality and Fiction" (Aus zwei Welten: Wahrheit und Dichtung). It is a well written story, illustrating the conflicts between the postulations of modern life and ecclesiastical dogmatism.

THE present Lord Lytton, Robert, who used to be "Owen Meredith," is to publish a new volume of poetry, "Fables in Song."

THE late Geo. Grote's minor writings are to be edited by Prof. Bain, of Aberdeen, who will append to them critical remarks on Mr. Grote's intellectual character, writings, and speeches.

PROF. PERRY has just completed a thorough revision of his excellent "Political Economy."

MR. FARJEON's Christmas story for 1873 is to be called "Golden Grain."

THE proprietors of the (English) Paper and Printing Trades Journal have decided upon "The Influence of Cheap Literature" as the subject of the prize essay, of two pages of the Journal, by those connected with the trades it represents. A silver cup is offered for the best, and certificates of merit for other excellent ones, and a good committee of judges is assured.

GUILLAUMIN & Co., Paris, will publish immediately two important works, both of which have been crowned by the Academy of Moral and Physical Science, viz.: "The Weekly Rest, from the stand-point of Morals, Intellectual Culture, and Industrial Progress," by Joseph Lefort; and "Colonization with the Modern Nations," by Paul Leroy Beaulieu.

TRESSE, the dramatic publisher, has in press a history of all Paris theatres, under the title "Foyers et Coulisses." It will be issued in twenty numbers, with the photographs of the most prominent actors, at 1 fr. 50 c. per number.

LEVY's forthcoming novels are, "Clotilde Martory," by Hector Malot; "Madame Elise," by Cadol; and "Madame de Villersel," by Achard. The same house has also nearly ready "The Good Old Times," by the Count de Gasparin.

DIDIER & Co., Paris, announce a "History of Colbert and his Administration," by Pierre Clement, in two large 8vo volumes.

PARIS is flooded with pamphlets, tracts, and sketches devoted to Bazaine, his trial and history.

GERMER BAILLIERE has nearly ready the fourth volume of Taxile Delord's "History of the Second Empire."

THE books in raised letters for the blind which gained the American Printing House for the Blind, Louisville, Ky., a medal of merit at the Vienna Exposition, were not prepared in extra purple and fine linen for the occasion, but selected from the ordinary stock in hand. It is stated that the best books of this institution have, however, been published since the Exposition was opened, and were not on exhibition.

PROF. DE GUBERNATIS is at work on a "Hand-book of Indian Mythology" (Trattato di Mitologia Indiana). Three volumes from the pen of this indefatigable writer will be issued in the next few weeks: "Ricordi Biografici," a reprint of sketches of contemporary Italian writers that have appeared in the Rivista Europea, of which the Professor is editor; a legendary drama called "Romulus," and an autobiography under the title of "Ricordi e Confessioni d'un Operaio Italiano."

THE Chaucer Society renews its appeal for help in preparing the Concordance to Chaucer's Works, which is in progress. The former appeal resulted in securing workers at all the Canterbury Tales, except the Wife's, Friar's, Summoner's, Second Nun's, and Canon's Yeoman's (the six-text of the Parson's is not yet out). Any reader willing to volunteer for work at any one or more of these Tales, the prose "Astrolabe," or Part I. of the "Minor Poems," should apply for instructions and text to the Director of the Society, Mr. F. J. Furnivall, 3 St. George's Square, Primrose Hill, London, N.W.—Athenaeum.

WARD, LOCK & TYLER have issued the first number of the New Quarterly Magazine. A high-class literary and social periodical is promised: it is to contain more printed matter than any published magazine, and, in addition to papers on topics of general interest, two or more complete tales will appear in each issue. The price is 2s. 6d.

BULWER, in the ninth book of his "Parisians," which he intended to publish anonymously, sets the following little trap to catch the critics: "There is something in Lord Lytton's writings—writings so numerous that I may be pardoned if I cannot remember where—a critical definition of the difference between dramatic and narrative art of story."

MURRAY has in preparation a work by E. R. Robson, Architect to the London School Board, called "Schoolhouses for the People," containing directions for the planning, building, &c., of school-rooms; a book by Robert Kerr, styled "A Small Country House: a brief, practical Discourse on the planning of a Residence to cost from 2,000*l.* to 5,000*l.*"; and new editions of Mr. Street's volume on "Brick and Marble Architecture of the Middle Ages," and of Kuger's Handbooks.

CHAPMAN & HALL are shortly to publish "Richard Wagner and the Music of the Future," by Dr. Hüffer. It will contain much new matter on the history of modern music.

THE private collection of fine engraved theatrical portraits, books, and pictures of the late Mr. T. H. Lacy, the well-known theatrical bookseller, is, in accordance with the will of the deceased, to be sold at auction, by Sotheby, Wilkinson &

Hodge, in November or December next. It comprises a most extensive series of the works of our principal dramatists; and among the engraved portraits are many of great rarity and interest.

G. BELL & SONS have in preparation, to be published in a week or two, "Memoirs of Sir E. Landseer," by Mr. F. G. Stephens, being a new edition of "Early Works of Sir E. Landseer," with additions and reproductions of some of the artist's more important works.

THE receipt of the "General Index Official Patent Gazette" for 1872 reminds us of a great and praiseworthy reform in the editing and issue of our Patent Office documents, which ought to be imitated in other departments. Instead of the old and poor Patent Office report, which used to appear two or three years behind-hand, and was of doubtful utility to anybody, Commissioner Leggett now issues an "Official Gazette" in monthly parts, containing an intelligent catalogue of new patents, with the essential data regarding their issue and concise statement of the nature of every device patented. It also contains a thoroughly classified digest of recent patent decisions and other well-edited matter pertinent. This official magazine is very properly offered to the public at a regular subscription price of, we believe, $5.00 a year. Thus it affords the patent news promptly and intelligently to those who want it bad enough to pay for it. The arrangement, it is hardly necessary to say, is much liked by all inventors and patent people, with whom in general the present administration of the office is, we believe, satisfactory. The true principle of issuing nearly all documents should be to make them of such value that somebody will be willing to pay enough for them to meet the expense of publication.—Springfield Republican.

"GERMAN National Cookery for English Kitchens" is a new book abroad that might well be naturalized here. Why doesn't somebody, suggests an exchange, get up an eclectic cook-book, that shall give recipes from the kitchens of all nations?

A NEW poem by the author of that somewhat successful philosophical novel in verse, "Olig Grange," is promised.

F. W. ROBINSON, the well-known novelist, is now writing a new story to be called "Second Cousin Sarah."

THE fifth volume of Kinglake's great work, his history of the Crimean War, is the most notable recent announcement in England.

"NOTABLE Shipwrecks" is the title of a work that will shortly be published by the Cassells. It will contain popularly told narratives of all the remarkable shipwreckst hat have occurred, from the wreck of the old Royal George to the loss of the City of Washington last July. The list of shipwrecks of course includes the Atlantic, Northfleet, Mægera and Captain. The work is by "Uncle Hardy," a nom de plume assumed by Mr. W. Senior.

MISS ANNIE CAREY, an English lady, is now preparing a work which will be entitled "The History of a Book." In it the various stages through which a book passes, from the manufacture of the paper to its publication, will be described and illustrated, together with an account of the manufactures employed in its production.

REV. E. E. MORRIS's series of histories, to be published in England by the Longmans, will have for a special object to promote "a horizontal rather than a vertical study of history," i. e., each volume will be a history of all the states of Europe at a particular period.

Universalist Publishing.

A CORRESPONDENT of the Christian Leader, the organ of the Universalist denomination, has a letter in a late issue of that journal, in which he enters strong and wise protest against the system of bookselling adopted by it. We quote such parts of the article as seem to give a fair idea of its contents and purpose:

I have always been of the opinion that so soon as it came into possession of sufficient capital to pass from the hands of its incorporators and originators to its professed position as a denominational publishing house, which happened two years ago, it should at once begin to discover its way to a more popular position among our own people and with the general public. The policy you deprecate, as adopted by the House, of dealing directly with the parishes, may have seemed, and may have actually been the only safe one for the House, starting as it did. But once well under way, and with a small though very important list of publications, which should find the denominational and public markets in every considerable city and village in the land, it is inexplicable to the uninitiated why the dealing-with-the-parish policy is longer followed. For what does that policy imply? First of all, that every clergyman shall constitute himself a self-appointed and unsalaried agent for the Publishing House, providing he desires to see his people more familiar with our own literature. . . . But both time and disposition are for the most part wanting with our clergy in this work. . . . It devolves on the minister who attempts it an amount of corresponding inquiry, running to this house and that individual, and little details of financial transactions, which together end in vexation, and often in misunderstanding, if not in out and out loss to the self-constituted agent. Hence, little or nothing is attempted by our pastors. But without their active co-operation, the Publishing House cannot reach one in twenty of the families of our churches. Even those families who habitually read our papers, and in every number see the list of our books advertised, will not go to the trouble of ordering a book by letter once in a hundred times, though they desire it ever so much. To say nothing, therefore, of the possible sale of our literature to members of other denominations and those of no particular church, the policy of dealing directly with our pastors and parishes, relying on resolutions at conventions, the help of the clergy, and advertising in our denominational press alone, is, to say the least, a very inadequate policy, and provocative of an increasing rather than a diminishing indifference among our people about our literature. In Lockport, Auburn, and Grand Rapids, I have found during my ministry in each place, booksellers who were not only willing but would have been glad to place our publications on their shelves. But inquiry in every case has shut the door I had opened, because our literature is purposely withheld from the trade. I could have found sale for not less than fifty volumes since I came to this city, had they been on sale in some one of the bookstores where I could have directed inquirers, and where, from the pulpit, and in private circles, and through our city press, I could have efficiently called attention to them. I have been made to blush time and again since residing in Grand Rapids by the pointed inquiry: "Why can't your literature, if you have any, be found at the bookstores?" Some new departure is needed to place our literature before the denomination and the public more conspicuously, and in a manner to facilitate its sale.

Presbyterian Board of Publication,

1,334 CHESTNUT ST., Phila.

Thoroughly unique in its treatment, fresh in its enunciation of time-worn precepts, and practical in its enforcement of duty, it is one of the very best religious books that has been issued for many months.—Sunday-School Times.

In this attractive treatise the writer shows that the commandments reflect the holiness of God himself; and that the gospel, in the very act of saving, gives us the law as our rule of life.—The Occident.

Dr. Crosby's style is crisp, incisive, bold, popular, and faithful, both to the inspired record and to the sinners of this generation.—Christian Intelligencer.

Dr. Crosby has furnished much valuable instruction, in a small compass, upon a momentous subject.—Reformed Church Monthly.

There is a freshness about the book which is very attractive, and we are glad that it comes to us from our Board of Publication.—Presbyterian.

Dorothy's Ladder. By the author of "Burden Bearing A Story about Jenny Ellis." 16mo, muslin. $1.00.

"What the steps of 'Dorothy's Ladder' are we shall not tell; but we may say that they are such as little feet can climb, by the aid of that strength which is never denied to those who seek it. The trials and discouragements of children are no trifles to them; and it is well that they should be taught how best to encounter, so that they may triumph over them."

Faithful, but not Famous. An Historical Tale. By the author of "Soldier Fritz," "Maggie's Message," etc. 16mo, muslin. 90 cents.

"Intended as an illustration of the struggles of Protestantism in France: a chapter of history too much neglected by old and young readers."

Little Mother. By the author of "Little Rosy's Travels." 16mo, muslin. 75 cents.

"The 'Little Mother' will be sure to attract the attention of children by its numerous and spirited illustrations, and to interest and instruct them by its story of familiar scenes among the poor."

Who Won the Prize; or, Helen Tracy. 16mo, muslin. $1.00.

"Teaching an important lesson—that the spirit of competition should always be regulated by the spirit of love—that rivalry does not justify jealousy or ill-will."

THE HOLIDAY NUMBER.

Notice to Publishers.

The issue of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY for November 22 will, in addition to the usual features, contain

1. A DESCRIPTIVE SUMMARY.
2. A REFERENCE PRICE LIST OF THE NEW HOLIDAY BOOKS.

The List to include all the Illustrated Works, Books for the Young, and other choice Books published during the year 1873.

Publishers of Holiday Books are urgently requested to give all information regarding their forthcoming issues WITHOUT DELAY, as it is of the utmost importance that dealers living at a distance should be informed early enough to be enabled to make up their orders. This point has always been sadly neglected, to the disadvantage of publisher as well as the dealer, who is compelled to close his holiday orders at an early date.

Advance announcements will be reported in the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY as soon as received. Descriptive notices and full titles, with prices, will be specially prepared for the HOLIDAY NUMBER of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY.

Advertisements should be received not later than WEDNESDAY, NOV. 19; if proofs are to be sent or cuts to be inserted, copy must be sent still earlier. For insets arrangements should be made at once.

THE MONTHLY BOOK CIRCULAR.

BOOKSELLERS, AGENTS, AND NEWSDEALERS, who desire a handy, cheap, and profitable advertising medium for the latest books in the market, will find this publication the best adapted to that purpose.

The MONTHLY BOOK CIRCULAR is issued at the beginning of every month, and contains the titles and prices of the principal books of the previous month, with announcements of forthcoming works for the current month, so classified as to show at a glance all the new publications in the various departments of literature.

The BOOK CIRCULAR is printed on tinted paper of light texture so that it can be sent with every book, magazine, paper, letter, circular, etc., without increasing the rate of postage, and it is certain that dealers who will adopt this cheap and effective mode for advertising their establishments, will find themselves amply repaid in a short time. The MONTHLY well distributed will not only increase the sales from their counters, but secure them orders for many books that they would not risk to purchase or the existence of which might pass unnoticed by their customers.

By EMERSON BENNETT, author of "The Prairie Flower," "Leni Leoti," "Kate Clarendon," "Ellen Norbury," "The Border Rover," "Clara Moreland," "The Forged Will," "The Forest Rose," "The Traitor," "The League of the Miami," "The Captured Bride," "Viola," "The Bride of the Wilderness," "The Pioneer's Daughter," "The Heiress of Bellefont," "The Phantom of the Forest," "The Brotherhood of Death," "The Artist's Bride," etc., etc., etc. With Portrait of the Author, engraved on steel, by John Sartain. 12mo, cloth extra, handsomely stamped in black and gold.....$1.50

"THE OUTLAW'S DAUGHTER," by Emerson Bennett. (Claxton, Remsen & Haffelfinger.) This is the initial volume of the first complete and uniform edition of this author's works, announced by the above house as forthcoming. The volume is attractively gotten up, and promises well for the rest of the series. Mr. Bennett, best known by his "Prairie Flower," is one of the serial writers who rose to fame in the early days of the New York Ledger. His novels are cleverly written, and are full of incidents and stirring adventures. They deal mostly with certain phases of southern and frontier life, now passing or past away, and the people, manners, and even scenery which he so graphically describes, are becoming matters of tradition. If for these reasons alone, his novels deserve to live in book form; but they have merits of their own which will command for them a wide sale.—Publishers' Weekly, Oct. 4.
